Table 9.1 Common management commands that are built into Django (continued)

Command	App	Description
`clearsessions`	sessions	Removes expired sessions from the database
`collectstatic`	staticfiles	Copies static files to the configured
`compilemessages`	django	Used to create translation files
`createcachetable`	django	Creates a database table to be used for page caching
`createsuperuser`	auth	Creates a superuser (admin) account in the database
`dbshell`	django	Opens your database's command-line tool
`diffsettings`	django	Displays differences between your settings and the defaults
`dumpdata`	django	Exports data from the database into a fixture
`findstatic`	staticfiles	Searches for a named static file and prints its details
`flush`	django	Removes all data from the database except migration state
`inspectdb`	django	Outputs a models.py file based on an existing table
`loaddata`	django	Imports a fixture into the database
`makemessages`	django	Builds translation files based on strings in the source
`makemigrations`	django	Creates migration files based on changes to Models
`migrate`	django	Performs migrations on the database
`optimizemigration`	django	Optimizes a migration file
`remove_stale_contenttypes`	contenttypes	Removes unused content type entries if the `contenttypes` app is in use
`runserver`	django	Runs the development server
`sendtestemail`	django	Sends a test email
`shell`	django	Runs a Django-aware REPL
`showmigrations`	django	Shows migrations in a project
`sqlflush`	django	Prints the SQL commands that are run when the `flush` management command executes
`sqlmigrate`	django	Prints the SQL for a named migration
`sqlsequencereset`	django	Prints the SQL for resetting an index sequence
`squashmigrations`	django	Squishes multiple migrations into a single file
`startapp`	django	Creates a new Django app directory
`startproject`	django	Creates a new Django project
`test`	django	Runs unit tests
`testserver`	django	Runs a development server but using a test database populated with the named fixture's deployment destination